Write Up	The Department of Computer Science and Engineering organized a guest lecture titled “From Code to Customer: How AI is Reshaping Product Management” on 22nd September 2026 for 5th Semester CSE students. Mr. Siddhant Prakash Pandey, Senior Product Manager from Adobe, shared industry insights on how AI is transforming product development, decision-making, and customer experience. The session highlighted the importance of combining technical knowledge with customer needs and introduced students to real-world AI applications, industry practices, and career opportunities in Product Management. An interactive Q&A session further enhanced the students’ understanding and helped bridge the gap between academic learning and industry expectations.
